Elle has been an absolute God send for me in both my personal and professional life. When I first started my journey with Elle, I was broken, confused and fragmented. Work with her has caused me to examine myself and my intentions authentically. She is super intense and tremendously effective.

I consider Elle to be one of the most influential figures of my adult professional career. As I entered into the workforce, there were so many pitfalls looking back that I cannot imagine where I would have been without Elle. In corporate America, where embarrassing "personal improvement plans" and "probation" are prescribed in lieu of coaching and mentoring, Elle was that mentor and coach for me helping me to perform to the level of my professional peers. She provided coaching on business acumen, advice on how to handle difficult interpersonal relationships, career advice and planning ahead for the future.
